fellowing WASHINGTON. Dec. 28, 1900.—John Riss, Grand Island, Neb.: My Dear Sir—I am directed by the secretary of war to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of December 16 to the president, which has been referred to the War department for reply. The facts in the case of Leonard Skinner, private, Company D, Forty-third volunteer infantry, who, the newspapers stated, was to be executed on Christmas morning in the Philippines for sleeping at his post are these?

The soldier was tried by a court-martial for "quitting his post," found guilty and sentenced to four months' confinement from August 15, 1900, and forfeiture of part of his np. Therefore you will note that the soldier has already served the term of his confinement and is no doubt present for duty with his command.

In this commettion it is but fair to state that since the beginning of the Spanish-American war no soldier has suffered the death penalty for either military or criminal offenses. Very respectfully. Very respectfully. H. C. CORBIN, Adjutant General,

The measures proposed, he insists, are made necessary by the recent opinion of the supreme court touching upon the common law of riparian rights.

When the new state constitution of Idaho was adopted it provided that the right too divert and appropriate the unappropriated waters of any natural stream to any beneficial use should never be denied. In that state the common law so far as it related to riparian rights was entirely ignored and abolished. In Arizona the territorial bill of rights declared all natural bodies of water to be public property and provision was made for the appropriation of water for beneficial uses. The great problem there to be solved was how best to draw the water off the land; not how to save it and conduct it upon land for irrigation purposes. This law involves no hardships where the use of water is limited to domestic, power and navigation purposes, but has been justly denounced as an 'infamous law in the arid region."

"It was clearly the intention of the legislature, in providing for the appropriation and diversion of the water of the streams of the state, to abolish, or at least to mitigate the evil effects of this odious doctrine. in the enactment of the irrigation laws of 1895. The supreme court, however, has said that attempted abolishment of the dociring of riparian rights is within the prohibition of the constitution. It would seem, therefore, that the only remedy lies in the adoption of a constitutional amendment abolishing or medifying this doctrine."

Mr. Channel insisted that the wisdom of creating the state board of transportation enstrated by the satisfactory adjudication of nearly 1,000 claims growing out of appropriations attempted prior to the date of its approval. These adjudications, he said, were made with but little expense to the appropriators and had had the effect of harmonizing the adverse and conflicting interests of individuals and communities throughout the arid sections of the state.

An Excellent Combination.

The pleasant method and beneficial effects of the well known remedy, Syrup or Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., illustrate the value of obtaining the liquid laxative principles of plants known to be medicinally laxative and presenting them in the form most refreshing to the taste and acceptable to the system. It is the one perfect strengthening luxutive, cleansing the system effectually, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers gently yet promptly and enabling one to overcome habitual constipation permanently. Its perfect freedom from every objectionable quality and substance, and its acting on the kidneys, liver and bowels, without weakening or irritating them, make it the ideal laxative.

In the process of manufacturing figs are used, as they are pleasant to the taste, but the medicinal qualities of the remedy are obtained from senna and other aromatic plants, by a method known to the Calafornia Fig Symur only. In order to get its beneficial effects and to avoid imitations, please remember the full name of the Company printed on the front of every package
